A Man and His Monument

(Reprinted from the Mountain Democrat of June 20, 1940)

We are happy to join this week with the members of the parish of the Church of Our Saviour and the community at large in the observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the church building, on Coloma Street.

It is impossible to consider any historical event of the Church of Our Saviour without recalling also the ministry in El Dorado County of the beloved Father C. C. Peirce, who was pastor of the church seventy-five years ago and whose memory is hallowed by forty-two years of Christian leadership and Christian fellowship among the people of El Dorado County.

The written record is that Father Peirce officiated at seven hundred baptisms, at six hundred marriages and at thirteen hundred funerals in his El Dorado County ministry. That is the statistical report, but it does not tell of the ministry of Father Peirce any more than we can describe a sunrise over the Sierra Nevada by saying that it occurred at 5:15 o'clock.

So with the Church of Our Saviour in the community. There is a statistical record, perhaps; and yet if we would know the value of the church to the community, we must search into the hearts and minds of the people and look into the lives of the men and women whose development the church has helped to guide.

There, too, we find exalted side by side, a man and his monument: the memory of Father Peirce and his stewardship and the church building which is the headquarters from which the Church of Our Saviour carries on among us.

Sharing with the Church of Our Saviour and the community at large in the observance of the diamond anniversary of the church building, The Democrat reprints in full from its files the report of the laying of the cornerstone of the edifice, on June 22, 1865, as reported by the paper in its issue of June 24th, 1865. The article follows:

LAYING THE CORNER STONE OF THE CHURCH OF OUR SAVIOUR, (EPISCOPAL) IN THE CITY OF PLACERVILLE, ON THURSDAY, JUNE 22ND, 1865.

On Thursday last, El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. and A. M., with the beautiful and impressive ceremonies peculiar to the Fraternity, laid the corner stone of the "Church of Our Saviour" in this city—W. Caldwell Belcher, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of California officiating. "With solemnities suited to the occasion, with prayers to Almighty God for His blessings," the work was performed. All present seemed impressed with the happy results which are certain to flow from the sacred edifice about to be erected, and from every tongue was uttered God speed to the noble undertaking.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock P. M., El Dorado Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar, met at the hall of Neptune Engine Company and at 2 o'clock formed in procession and marched to Masonic Hall, where they halted. Immediately after the whole procession was formed in front of Masonic Hall on Main Street, by the Grand Marshal, Sir Theodore F. Tracy, Bro. A. J. Baber, assistant. Jedd. Wilson's famous Brass Band preceded the procession followed by El Dorado Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar, as escort; then Master Masons; then Placerville Union Brass Band; then Royal Arch Masons; El Dorado Lodge No. 26, officiating, closing the procession. In this order the Fraternity marched to the site of the new church, and on arriving at the ground halted. The lines were opened to the right and left, by order of the Grand Marshal, and the Grand Master followed by the Grand officers and the procession in reversed order passed through to the raised platform erected near the northeast corner of the lot, upon the Grand Master and Grand Officer. Upon the platform, in front of the Grand Master, were placed by their several bearers, the Holy Writings, the Book of Constitutions, which chairs had been placed for the Vessel of Corn, two Silver vessels containing Wine and Oil, the three large lights, the five Orders of Architecture and the Working Tools. The Knights Templar, Chapters and Lodges stood uncovered in front of the platform. The ladies—a large number being present—occupied seats on the platform, which had been fitted up for their accommodation and the Choir, and a crowd of gentlemen encircled the ground. It was a splendid array of female grace and loveliness, and manly strength and dignity.

All having been properly arranged, quietly and without confusion, Jedd. Wilson's Brass Band played a solemn air, and then the Proclamation of the object of the Convocation was read by the Grand Marshal. A fervent and appropriate prayer by Rev. Bro. C. C. Peirce, Grand Chaplain, followed. Then came a sweet chant by the choir. The ceremony of laying the cornerstone, peculiar to the Fraternity, then followed. Bro. H. D. Raphael, Grand Secretary, read the contents in the box, which was deposited in the cavity under the corner stone.

The following is a list of the articles in the box: Holy Bible, Square and Compass, Book of Common Prayer, Constitution of the

Dinner Opens Church Anniversary

OBSERVANCE TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Unveiling Of Plaque To Be Followed By Commemorative Service

Observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary of laying the cornerstone of the Church of Our Saviour opened on Thursday evening with a public diamond jubilee dinner at the guild hall of the church, on Coloma Street.

A delicious baked ham supper was served to eighty-eight guests by the members of St. Agnes Guild, under the direction of Mrs. S. Ronzone. The hall and tables were tastefully decorated in red, white and blue colors, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Mabel Meyers, and table decorations called attention to the seventy-five years during which the Church of Our Saviour has been the headquarters of the Episcopal ministry in El Dorado County.

A program appropriate to the occasion had been arranged, featuring reminiscences by older members of the church and other old friends of Father C. C. Peirce, who was rector of the church at the time the building was erected and whose ministry in El Dorado County spanned a total of forty-two years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Killough and Mrs. L. J. Dormody told of some of the little incidents which arose during the ministry of Father Peirce as he went, sometimes, into remote sections of the county, sharing the joys or the sorrows of the county and its people.

Venire Chosen In Check Case

Alienists To Examine Report Over Weekend, Suspend On Monday

The names of thirty-five persons who may or may not become veniemen in the matter of the People vs. W. R. Fowler, were drawn in Superior Court Friday morning.

Fowler, who has entered a plea that he is not guilty and that he is not guilty by reason of insanity to a charge of issuing worthless checks, will be examined during the weekend by court appointed alienists whose report will be available on Monday.

It was indicated in court that the sheriff will not be expected to summon the venire until Monday—after the report of the alienists is available—and this led to the supposition that in the event the alienists' examination fails to show grounds for support of the defense plea, the plea may be changed.

Fowler was taken into custody during the Memorial Day weekend. Authorities reported he had written a series of bad checks aggregating approximately $108.

The young man is reported formerly to have been a patient in a state hospital and county officials report that he was discharged from the institution as cured.

Burglar Alarm Rings And Rings And Rings

The automatic burglar alarm on the county treasurer's safe developed a "temperament" about 10:45 o'clock Thursday night and started ringing.

The time lock was on the safe, set for sometime Friday morning, and despite official investigation by numerous officials, there was nothing to be done but let the bell ring.

Happily, the "warning" was an accident and did not arise as a result of any burglary attempt.

Friday morning the bell, which operates at certain hours on a battery, was still ringing, but the battery was so low that the clatter had been reduced to a tinkle. When the time lock permitted opening of the safe, "order" was restored.

Cruiser to South America

The U. S. cruiser Wichita (above) is second 10,000-ton warship ordered to South America on a "goodwill" tour. The Wichita's trip, and that of the Quincy, were described as routine, though it is admitted a show of the American flag might serve as a stabilizing influence at Latin American countries troubled by fifth column activities.

CCC TO TRAIN FOR DEFENSE

Revised Eligibility Rules Open Rolls To Thousands Of Young Californians

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps is planning intensified training to develop technicians for non-combat jobs as a defense measure.

Dayton E. Jones, state supervisor of CCC selection, said a total of 63 central repair shops offering instruction in mechanical trades had been established throughout the country, with modern equipment in use and expert mechanics as supervisors.

Forty shops already are in operation and plans are being completed for three in California—at Arcadia, Stockton and Redding.

Jones said training facilities in radio, communications, clerical, mess and infirmaries lines also are being increased.

As a means of bringing state CCC camps to full strength, and to take advantage of the new training, the national CCC director has called for 2,597 young Californians between 17 and 23 years to join the corps. Revised eligibility requirements have opened the rolls to thousands of youths hitherto unable to participate in the CCC educational and training program.

Youths who are unemployed and need employment, even though their family financial status is better than "below average," now are being accepted, Jones said.

EVELYN HICKS, ELBERT GRAY WED ON THURSDAY AT CARSON CITY

Friends joined Thursday afternoon in extending congratulations and all good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Gray, who were wed earlier in the day at Carson City.

Mrs. Gray is the former Evelyn Hicks, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Hicks, of Bee Street, and her husband is the elder son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Euell Y. Gray. Both are graduates of the county high school.

They were accompanied to Carson City by Euell Gray, Jr., a brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray have established their home on Spring Street in the little cottage owned by Mrs. Harriett Amstalden and adjoining her residence. Mr. Gray is employed locally with one of the major oil companies.

We join other friends of the couple in all good wishes.

Mrs. Harry Thompson arrived Thursday evening from Sparks, Nevada, summoned home following the death of her sister, Miss Sophia, M. Veerkamp.

Sam Wildman Takes Master's Degree

Son Of City Engineer Plans Another Year At Michigan University

Sam G. Wildman, son of City Engineer Clifton Wildman, has won a Master of Arts degree at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, and is making plans for another year of study on the Michigan campus.

Wildman is a graduate of El Dorado County high school and took a Bachelor of Science degree at the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis a year ago.

Asked Friday morning about a report from the Michigan University News Service telling of Wildman's attaining his master's degree, the young man's father revealed that he attended Michigan on a scholarship won by his work at Oregon Agricultural College and that his work during the year at Michigan has been such that the way has been opened to him for another year of study on the Michigan campus.

Marriage appears to have been no handicap to Wildman in his pursuit of education. Mrs. Wildman is the former Sophia Kulchar, who was a member of the county high school faculty several years ago.

HITLER MEETS PARIS ENVOY

Situation Of 1918 Is Reversed As French Apply For Peace

By FREDERICK G. OECHSNER United Press Staff Correspondent

COMPIEGNE FOREST (VIA GERMAN FIELD TELEPHONE TO BERLIN). — (UP) — Adolph Hitler gave to France his terms of armistice on the spot where Germany signed an end to the world war in 1918.

I stood today in old dining Car No. 2419-D of the wagons-lits company where the world war armistice was signed and watched the German chancellor hand to French delegates the terms by which he would heal a 22-year-old ache to German pride.

Outside the sun was bright and the pleasant forests of compiegne were quiet and at peace. War seemed far away.

The terms given France today were based on three premises. These were read to the four French emissaries by Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel after Hitler had handed them his terms.

The armistice, said the preamble read by Keitel, must:

Assure Germany that France will not again take up the battle. Give Germany assurances needed for carrying on the war against Britain.

Lay the foundations for an ultimate new peace in which Germany will receive restitution for wrongs done her "by force of arms."

The scene was solemn in the stuffy French railway dining car which France has preserved for 22 years as a memorial to her triumph over Germany in 1918.

Hitler sat at the head of the long table in the car—in the seat of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, the seat (Continued on Page Four)

Roy Marks, director of the fifth annual overnight camp of the 4-H Clubs and the Farm Bureau, which will be held this weekend at the county campground at Lake Tahoe, reported Friday morning that all is in readiness for the outing.

"About the last detail," said Mr. Marks, "is the announcement that H. B. Tatum will have a truck leaving the P. F. G. A. fruit shed at 11 o'clock Saturday morning. Those who lack transportation for themselves or their baggage may find accommodation with Mr. Tatum."

It is planned that everyone will be in camp by two o'clock in time to start a program of activity which will include special events in the afternoon, a campfire program in the evening, and Sunday morning hikes and other diversions.

LEGION AUXILIARY MEETS AUGUST 10th AT SAN DIEGO

The Twenty-first Annual Convention Call of the American Legion Auxiliary is being forwarded today to representatives of the 26,000 members in California. The convention will be held in San Diego, Aug. 10 to 14, 1940.

In addition to the hearing of reports of State Officers and Committees, electing of officers for the ensuing year, amending State Constitution and by-laws, and transacting business, the delegates to this convention will re-affirm their policy of supporting all American Legion activities, and re-dedicate themselves to their continued service to "community, state and nation." Special attention will be given to Americanism and National defense as always, and the state president, Mrs. H. Hathway Wright, of Saticoy, will be prepared to direct the activities of the convention in any emergency program which the rapidly changing world conditions may demand.

Miss Florence Griggs was hostess at a social occasion at her home Monday evening at which neighbors and other friends gathered to honor Mrs. James Price, recently wed.

1ST PERIOD IN CAMPAIGN ENDS

Bonus Plan Workers Are Again Advised Of Extra Points For Extensions

Last Monday night marked the close of the First Period in The Democrat and The Bonus Check campaign. The points on subscriptions have now decreased to the Second Period schedule which will prevail until June 29th, just one week from Saturday. Hundreds of thousands of points were issued to workers on subscriptions turned in Monday night and every active worker profited greatly.

It is a strange coincidence too, and something unusual in affairs of this kind, but each of the leading workers, striving for the big Bonus Checks, benefitted almost equally during the First Period, and so not without a hairline decision may the leaders be determined.

The competition, therefore, as far as the relative standing of the workers is concerned, depends almost entirely upon the results between now and the end of the campaign, as to whom the ultimate earners of the checks will be. This is not "mere talk" for the sake of telling, but actual fact—hence the struggle for supremacy will be fought in the next few days for the entire campaign comes to a close just three weeks from Saturday. And the Second Period, by far the most important during the remainder of the drive, will close at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, June 29th.

Extension Points

The following rule as taken from the rules and regulations concerning extension subscriptions should be noted: "Points will be issued on extension subscriptions according to the period in which the original subscription was turned in, with the exception of the final period." In other words, even though the First Period has passed, there is still an opportunity to double back and pick up First Period points, by securing First Period extension subscriptions, up to and inclusive of the close of the Third Period, July 6th.

After the ceremony was performed the Grand Master and Grand officers resumed their seats and the Placerville Union Brass Band played a National air. Rev. Bro. W. H. Hill, Grand Orator, then delivered a most excellent, feeling and instructive address; suitable to the time, the occasion, and to the audience. It was full of charity, of kindness, of brotherly love, entirely free from intolerance and fanaticism and spurious patriotism. It was elevated in sentiment, dignified in language and loyal in spirit. In glowing terms he pictured the benefits and blessings conferred upon mankind by Christianity, and feelingly deprecated and deplored the mischievous custom of carrying politics into the pulpit. With excusable zeal and marked ability, he defended the Church of which he is a devout follower and bright ornament, from the attacks of her enemies; and manifested his charity by not following their example. We regret that we were unable to pro-

MERCED MAN HELD IN NEW ENGLAND GEM THEFT

HARTFORD, Conn., (P)—Jerome A. Murray, 38, Merced, Calif., was awaiting superior court trial today on a charge of stealing $50,000 worth of jewelry from the Hotel Bond in 1925.

Murray was employed as a porter at the hotel for five days. He was accused of taking four sample cases of jewelry owned by New York and New Jersey companies.

Murray was returned here from Rhode Island state penitentiary recently.

S. W. Harklerod, Fresno, was re-elected president of the California Wine Institute for the second time.

Heure a copy of his address for publication. It was extemporaneous. Although the audience was large and promiscuous, the accommodations inferior, and the heat uncomfortable, yet the speaker was listened to with breathless attention. All who heard the address admired it. At its conclusion, the choir sang a beautiful ode, and then the Chaplain pronounced a benediction.

The procession was then reformed in the same order and marched to Upper Placerville and back to Masonic Hall, where it was dismissed. Perfect order and decorum marked the whole proceedings, and everything passed off admirably. The music—vocal and instrumental—was of superior order, the procession large and imposing, and the ceremony impressive and solemn, and it will be long mentioned as the finest display ever made in our city.

a game of chess. Without answering, Marcia shut the door. Then she turned and faced her father. "I want to know why you bought that house, Father."

"Why does anyone buy a house?" he said nervously. "To live in or for speculation. I bought it to live in."

"Yes, but that house has something strange about it."

"Obviously I'm badly in need of repairs," Howard answered with a little laugh.

"I mean more than that," Marcia interrupted. "There is a feeling of—of unpleasant things."

Howard stood up abruptly and walked to the window.

"So," he murmured, without turning around, "you felt it, too."

"Father, please—" Marcia put a hand on his arm and he faced her again. "What is it you are trying to hide from me?" she asked quietly.

Howard took a gold case from his pocket and carefully chose a cigarette, lighting it before he answered. Then he laughed, a slightly embarrassed laugh.

"To tell the truth, Marcia, I was still afraid of that matter—afraid you would think me something of a fool to plunge into an adventure at my age."

Marcia leaned forward, her eyes bright.

"Real adventure?" she asked eagerly.

"Well, perhaps I shouldn't call it an adventure. We'll probably have a very dull time. You'll see how nice it will be after the alterations are made and a gardener is turned loose on the grounds."

"Father," Marcia said impatiently, "if you don't tell me what it is all about I shall die of curiosity."

Howard chuckled and then grew serious.

"There isn't much to tell. You know I've always liked this part of the country—wanted to buy a house here. Well, last week I had a letter from an agent in Cran-

don. He said he had a house on his list which might interest me. I went to see him, and he told me that the house had been for rent or sale for ten years, and that I could get it very cheap now because the owners needed money."

"But where does the adventure come in?" Marcia protested.

"Wait," Howard said. "I came up here to see the house, and the first impression I had was uncomfortable. Then I saw that the place has wonderful possibilities."

"And in the meantime," said Marcia, "I am dying of suspense."

Howard laughed.

"Very well," he said. "I decided to rent the place with a clause that I could buy it within a year for the price quoted at present. The day after I signed the lease the agent called, saying that he had been offered twice my price for the house. A stranger named Brown had come in and offered to buy, cash down. This stranger seemed very much disturbed when he learned that someone else already had an option."

"Did the agent describe the man to you?"

"Yes," Howard grinned. "That intrigued me. Mr. Brown wore a thick black beard and dark glasses."

"Enter the villain," Marcia murmured. "But why did you buy the house? You already had it for a year."

"Well," he hesitated a moment, and then went on, "it had been rented twice before, and each time the occupants broke their lease, claiming they had been persecuted. I thought, perhaps, if I owned the place I might be left in peace."

"I think instead," Marcia said quietly, "that you may have put yourself in greater danger."

Marcia Howard receives a mysterious letter from her father asking her to join him at Stipetown as soon as possible. On the train she meets a young doctor, Larry Norton, from Stipetown, who knows her father and tells her that he has cut his hand, insinuating that there is something strange about it. When Marcia meets her father, he tells her that he has bought a house, the large Stips estate on the outskirts of town. They go out to see the house and Marcia finds that it is surrounded by a high forbidding stone wall. The rooms are small—more like cells than rooms—and at the head of the stairs is a heavy steel door. Marcia feels uncomfortable, believing that evil has been in the house and that evil is still lurking there.

CHAPTER II

MARCIA was silent as they drove back to town. Her father told her the carpenters would get to work next day, and as soon as the mess was cleaned up, they would move in. He was full of plans and kept up an incessant, jerky conversation.

The stranger offered double the price for the house.

As her first uncomfortable impression of the house wore off, Marcia listened more closely to what her father was saying. Her vague surprise at his enthusiasm increased. He was not a man given to talking much, and it seemed to her that he was chatting nervously now to avoid a silence or perhaps questions. She decided to ask questions later.

Stipetown was larger than she had thought. They drove down a broad street lined with shops and past a moving-picture theater. Beyond, a sprawling frame building laughed. "You have got a good profile—inherited it from me. Seriously, Marcia, he's a nice fellow."

Marcia bit her lip and changed the conversation.

"When do we dine?"

"Supper in ten minutes."

Supper turned out to be a rather tasteless meal, and Marcia was glad when it was over. Her father had been silent, and she sensed that he had something on his mind. When they had finished, Marcia said,

"I'm tired. Let's go upstairs where we won't be disturbed."

Howard seemed almost reluctant to follow her, and when they reached their rooms he suggested tions given him at times contributed to create inconveniences in the performing of marriages and in other official work of the loved pastor, but despite these and other handicaps as compared to modern times, the mission of Father Peirce was carried out in a spirit of love and understanding which won him an undying place in the hearts of his people.

John Cleeve related incidents as he recalled them during the ministry of Father Peirce and told of one time in particular when the pastor was called upon to become something of a sleuth to discover the person who was raiding his supply of sacramental wine. Substituting kerosene for wine, Father Peirce solved the problem promptly.

C. E. Barker spoke of Father Peirce in his association with the local newspaper press, recalling the visits of the beloved pastor to the office of The El Dorado Republican many years ago, when Mr. Barker was a youth, learning the printer's trade.

Rev. Harold Morehouse, pastor of the El Dorado County Federated Church, gave the principal talk of the after-dinner program taking as his subject "Co-operation." The speaker pointed out that some people understand co-operation as being "you help me or you do something for me," and stressed the point that in our many ways of life and in our national life, all should endeavor to co-operate without the thought of personal benefit or advantage in the interest of attaining the common objective.

Wilder Immel led the group in community singing of old-time favorite songs and Mrs. Lucille Smithson contributed two vocal solos to the program, the first "Open the Gates of the Temple," from "The Messiah," and the second, "God Bless America."

The seventy-fifth anniversary observance will continue with a service of commemoration at the Church of Our Saviour on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock in which the several patriotic, fraternal and civic bodies of the community have been invited to share with the parish in commemorating the anniversary of laying the cornerstone seventy-five years ago by El Dorado Lodge No. 26, F. & A. M.

The vested choir of the church, with the choir of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, of Grass Valley, will provide special music for the service.

Following the commemoration service, there will be exercises outside near the front of the church building at which Marguerite Parlor of Native Daughters of the Golden West, under the leadership of Mrs. Nora Gray, chairman of their committee on history and landmarks, will unveil a plaque to the memory of the ministry of Father Peirce in El Dorado County.

ATTENTION O. E. S. MEMBERS

Members of Fallen Leaf Chapter No. 90, O. E. S., will meet at Memory Chapel at 1:45 o'clock on Saturday, to attend funeral services of our late sister, Sophia Margaret Veerkamp.

The attention of members is also directed to the invitation to attend the commemoration services at the Episcopal Church at 11 o'clock on Sunday morning.

EUGENE PALLETTE, Walter Pidgeon and Deanna Durbin in one of the Hawaiian sequences of the Universal romantic comedy, "It's a Date," at the Empire Theatre Sunday and Monday.

DEANNA DURBIN STEPS OUT IN "IT'S A DATE" AT EMPIRE ON SUNDAY

When Kay Francis recently announced her intention to appear in only one or two films a year and stepped down from the throne of the "screen's best-dressed woman," Hollywood began to cast about for candidates to succeed her.

A good bet for the title, and one under-rated in this line, is the star of Miss Francis' most recent picture. She is Deanna Durbin and the film is Universal's "It's a Date," showing Sunday and Monday at the Empire theatre.

Deanna steps out with twenty-three costume changes, by far her largest wardrobe to date and one of the most lavish accorded any actress in recent years.

The star's wardrobe represents an imposing expenditure and twelve weeks' work by more than fifty seamstresses, fitters, drapers and embroiderers. This contrasts very sharply with her six changes in her first picture, "Three Smart Girls," and two changes in her second film, "104 Men and a Girl." Deanna's wardrobe expense on the latter was $24.50.

Vera West, Universal studio designer, has created the clothes for all seven of Deanna's pictures.

VICTOR MCLAGLEN HAS STRONG PART IN NEW EMPIRE FILM

Presenting Victor McLaglen and Jackie Cooper in a story which blends fast action and thrills with heart-throbbing drama, Universals "The Big Guy" opens Friday for two days at the Empire Theatre.

Said to provide the two stars with the most powerful roles they have had in recent months the picture's supporting cast features Ona Munson, Peggy Moran, Ed Borphy and Russell Hicks.

McLaglen, whose stirring emotional performances have won him the highest honors that Hollywood can bestow, is seen as the warden of a great penitentiary. When he unexpectedly comes into possession of a fortune in stolen money, the warden finds himself subject to the same desire to keep it which might affect any of the convicts under his care. Cooper portrays an ambitious young mechanic who, through a strange twist of fate, becomes involved in the escape of two convicts who kill an officer and then leave Jackie to face trial for their crime.

Although the story has an action background, and presents spectacular fights and dunning gun battles with the police, the dominant theme is quite warm and human. McLaglen as the warden torn between honor and greed, is said to give his finest performance since "The Informer."

SOPHIA M. VEERKAMP KITES TO BE HELD ON SATURDAY

The funeral services for Miss Sophia M. Veerkamp, daughter of Mrs. Sarah F. Veerkamp, of Gold Hill, will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock from Memory Chapel. Interment will be at Coloma cemetery.

Miss Veerkamp, a native of Gold Hill, graduate of the local schools and a teacher for many years in El Dorado County and at North Sacramento, passed away early on Thursday at a hospital in Sacramento, where she had been a patient since January.

The members of Sutter Mill Rebebekah lodge and of Fallen Leaf Chapter No. O. E. S., of which she was a member, have been called by their respective officers to attend the last rites for their deceased sister.

In addition to her mother, Miss Veerkamp is survived by three sisters and three brothers.

The Golden Text will be: "Lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the wind, and declared unto man what is his thought, that maketh the morning darkness, and treadeth upon the high places of the earth. The Lord, The God of hosts, is his name." (Amos 4: 13). Bible selections will include the following passages from Isaiah 42: 5, 8: "Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein: . . . I am the Lord: that is my name, and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "Material evolution implies that the great First Cause must become material, and afterwards must either return to Mind or go down into dust and nothingness. . . The true theory of the universe, including man, is not in material history but in spiritual development. Inspired thought relinquishes a material, sensual, and mortal theory of the universe, and adopts the spiritual and immortal" (p. 547).

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY HAS BUILDING ON TREASURE ISLAND

About one million persons last year visited the Christian Science Building at the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island, which began its second season with the reopening of the Fair on May 25.

The building, which this year has been redecorated in brighter colors, in keeping with the general color scheme of the Exposition, now represents an investment of approximately $65,000.

An added feature of its decoration this year is a waterfall, surrounded with ferns, flowers, and redwood trunks, at the base of the high pylon which serves as a landmark for Exposition visitors.

The building contains attractively designed exhibits of the various activities of the Christian Science movement. There is a tastefully decorated reading room, and a charming small garden where Exposition visitors may stop and rest.

Contributing to the maintenance of the building are the Christian Science churches of California, the eleven western states, and the territories of Alaska and Hawaii.

PICTURE IN NEWSPAPER ADS BRINGS CHANCE FOR FILM STARDOM

Because a Hollywood casting director saw an advertisement for a famous brand of beer in the "Republican" and "Democrat" an obscure young man of San Mateo, California, finds that the doors to Hollywood and possible motion-picture stardom are being opened for him.

The youth is H. D. Humburg, tall, tanned, clean-cut photograph model who posed for a picture of a typical American working man in a recent newspaper advertisement for the Acme Breweries of San Francisco and Los Angeles. The Hollywood casting director is Ben Piazza of RKO Studios, who immediately queried the brewing company as to the identity of the youth in the advertisement.

Commenting upon the chance at a motion-picture career which the youth may win, Karl F. Schuster, president of Acme Breweries, states: "Here indeed is a new and impressive answer to the old old question, 'Do people read newspaper advertisements in the 'Republican' and 'Democrat,' countless thousands of other readers, in all walks of life, are attracted by newspaper advertising and impelled to buy the items advertised. Having his 'picture in the paper' has brought an exceptional opportunity to Mr. Humburg; and in the same way, having our sales messages for Acme Beer regularly in the 'Republican' and 'Democrat,' is bringing exceptional results for us."

REPORT OF LIONS BRINGS CALL FOR STATE HUNTER

State agencies have been notified through the Farm Advisor's office of a report by August Ebbert, of Newtown, that he recently has lost several sheep and has reason to suspect there is a mountain lion in the vicinity.

Mr. Ebbert's suspicions are strengthened by the circumstance that last summer the state hunter killed a lion on an adjoining ranch.

Hitler Meets Paris Envoys

where Poch in 1918 addressed his Brusque remarks to the German petitioners.

Today the French were in the place of the Germans. As they entered the car Hitler and his high command rose and raised their arms in the stiff Nazi Salute. In 1918, as Germans quickly noted, the French remained seated when the Germans brought their suit for peace.

Hitler was the first to speak. He turned to Keitel, on his left, and asked him to read to the four French Plenipotentiaries the preamble to his terms of armistice.

The preamble crystallized the memories of the old war. It spoke of President Woodrow Wilson, of broken allied pledges, of dishonor to Germany and enslavement, of weakness—weakness in believing the "promises of democratic statesmen."

"If the Historic forest has been chosen for handing over these conditions," said the preamble, "then it has been done in order, once and for all, through this act of just retribution, to eradicate a memory which was not a glorious page in French history and which was felt by the German people to be the deepest shame of all."

The ceremony was brief. In 10 minutes it was over and Hitler walked from the car as a German military band played Deutschland Uber Alles and the "Horst Wessel Song," leaving the French to ponder his terms.
